This book was regarded for a long time as one of the most important contributions to this new subject.

This writing was to continue during the 1970s and 1980s, with a large number of newspaper articles on topics of local cultural interest.

So far he has done research on more than 100 topics of Barbadian heritage, published 10 books which include "De Mortal Pestle", a collection of Barbadian proverbs; "Folk Beliefs of Barbados"; "The 1937 Disturbances of Barbados", which is a summary of the Dean Commission of Enquiry into what was perhaps the most important event in this island's modern history; he has also published "Bajan Quizzes"; "Place Names of Barbados", explaining the origins of some 500 local names; "Nicknames of Barbados", "It Happened in Barbados", "True Stories of Barbadian Folk", and "Ossie Moore", a collection of jokes about Barbados' best loved folk character.

In the field of calypso, he was a founding member of the now defunct Conquerors Calypso Tent and has been credited with introducing to it, one calypsonian with the unusual name of Red Plastic Bag.

Addinton willingly shares his wide and in-depth knowledge of the Barbadian Heritage with individuals, groups, students from primary schools to university, journalists, as well as governmental and non-governmental organizations. He gives lectures, sits on panel discussions, organizes events, prepares and conducts quizzes, and acts as master of ceremonies. He also judges competitions in literary arts, fine arts, craft, dance, theatre arts and music, even Easter bonnet parades and dress making.

Addinton Forde has been referred to by a number of names “the Kite Man”, “The Warri Man”, “The Sticklicking Man”, “The Cultural Man”, “The Culture Guru”, “A National Icon”.

BISHOP ALFRED RUDOLPH VAUGHN, BSS, of the Garden St. James was born on March 31 1932 and educated at the St. Alban's Boys' School. At the age of fifteen he was converted to the Christian faith at the Gardens Church of God and by the age of twenty he was a married man.

In August of 1960, Mr. Vaughn emigrated to England with the intention of staying there and making a living for himself and his family. With that in mind, his wife joined him two years later but he was soon to return to Barbados. While in England he worked as a carpenter and a joiner and in 1965 when his wages were at their highest and his wife was studying to be a nurse, the Lord called the two of them back to Barbados to do work for Him.

After furthering his education at the International Evangelistic Fellowship, Alfred Vaughn and his wife returned to Barbados and in 1966 established the Caribbean Evangelistic Fellowship. Mr. Vaughn later became the Pastor of the establishment. Under the leadership of Pastor Vaughn, the Fellowship has ministered and continues to minister in many parishes throughout the island as every effort was made to lead persons to Christ. Bishop Vaughn is also thanking God for the opportunity to have ministered in sixteen countries of the world.

Apart from the established churches, Bishop Vaughn also introduced a business arm to the fellowship when he opened the Miracle Mart to provide jobs for members of the Fellowship. Over the twenty-two years of operation, twenty-nine persons would have been employed at the Miracle Mart.

In the early years, extensive ministry was done in nine parishes and presently there are eight established churches in Barbados and two in Guyana. The fellowship has widened its borders and continues to do so as it celebrates forty years of operation in the island of Barbados. Today, Bishop Vaughn continues to work for the Lord as he encourages persons to give their lives to God.

The award of BARBADOS SERVICE STAR is being made in recognition of his contribution to the community and the church.
